Emma

Hi my name's Emma. I am a qualified Speech and Language Therapist. I have a keen interest and speciality in supporting autistic people, their families and carers. For this I draw on both my professional knowledge and experience, plus my personal lived experience. I am autistic and also the parent of two autistic children. I have a good listening ear and find it easy to empathise with others. I find it very satisfying to help other people problem solve – so being part of the team that answers queries on ChatAutism and writing content for Autism Space is a job that suits me down to the ground!

Natalie

Hi, my name is Natalie my background is in nursing, and I am also a Health Visitor. I have a child with special educational needs enabling me to really empathise with other parents and carers. I enjoy providing individual support and advice for online, it is great how convenient it is and can be used anytime, anywhere. Digitally I can help more people efficiently through writing online content and answering queries on Chat Autism, than I have in previous roles. It is great that it can empower people to manage their own needs, from their own home.
